

ABSTRACT

A solid-state imager is disclosed wherein isolation regions (4) are covered with power supply lines (8), a light-transmitting lens film (24) whose surface forms
5 continuous convex portions above the isolation regions (4) convex towards channel regions (5) is provided, and a light-transmitting material having a refractive index lower than that of the lens film (24) is provided over the lens film (24).